Summary

My name is Raees Mughal, and I am employed with Icon Textile Company as timekeeper. Alongside my full-time job, I am passionately learning web development, specializing in frontend technologies. I have created numerous frontend projects, which are available on my GitHub.

Prior to focusing on web development, I explored UX/UI design, receiving professional accolades for my web designs. You can view my design work on my Figma Community profile.

I am actively building my network on LinkedIn to connect with experienced professionals in the web development industry. These interactions inspire and keep me updated with the latest trends and knowledge in my field. If you're a developer too, feel free to DM me —I'm always open to connecting and potentially assisting you in your journey.
